INTERNAL ANALYSIS

Company Culture

We offer the ideal working environment for ambitious people who want to reach their full potential. We support an environment of continuous improvement. To us, there is no 'good enough' there is only the potential to do better.

Our company's culture is one of our most valuable assets. Our atmosphere is highly informal and our structure comparatively flat. This provides our employees with the flexibility they need to be creative, to research their ideas and to act upon them. We offer an ideal working environment for ambitious people who want to reach their full potential and invest their energy to see this come to fruition.

we deliver way more than expected

The values that drive us

We remain strongly results driven, which has contributed significantly to our rapid growth.

We strive to be the best at what we do. We don't just aim to surpass our competitors. We also work to exceed our previous achievements.

We acknowledge the importance of open communication and teamwork. We believe that no single person is as valuable as the collective strength of the entire team.

We support an environment of continuous improvement. To us, there is no 'good enough' there is only the potential to do better.

We foster an environment of creativity. We believe our next achievement will begin with the creative thinking of one of our employees.

We recognize that our success depends upon our position of profit. Our financial success will fuel our professional and personal development.

We do not place value in manner of dress, country of origin, religious affiliation or other demographic identifiers. Instead, we place value in a 'winner's mentality', a dedication to success and a commitment to excellence.

DETAILED STUDY OF DEPARTMENTS

Our group of companies is working with the help and support from the different departments. All departments work uniquely for the attainment of the organizational goal. The performance of the different departments was amazing for the past several years that are the reason why the company's profit volume is increasing at a higher rate. The head of each department are directly liable to report to the CEO (Our Group Owner & Co-Founder).

HUMAN RESOURCE DEPARTMENT

Human Resources are exactly it says: Resources for Humans – Within the Workplace! Its main objective is to meet the organizational needs of the company it represents and the needs of the people hired by that company. In short, HR is the hub of the organization serving as a liaison between all concerned. Depending on the size of our company, the HR Department might be called Personnel with a manageable workforce that can be handled by a personnel manager and a small staff.

ORGANIZATIONAL DEVELOPMENT:

To ensure its success, a company must establish a hierarchal reporting system. The funnel of responsibility is critical to the efficiency of a smoothly operating business entity in which there is a clearly defined understanding of who is responsible for what. They provide consultation to a company's management team to identify what the company's core business and culture is about, and proceeds to plan and map the company's organizational infrastructure to support those needs.

Choose The Best

Employee Recruitment and Selection Process:

It is not uncommon for a company to filter out those who fail to impress the HR manager first. For those select few who make it through, the HR manager schedules interviews between the department's hiring manager and potential candidates, and follows up with the hiring process to establish the new hire with the company.

FINANCE & ACCOUNTS DEPARTMENT

The finance department deals with the procurement and management of funds. This department controls the receipts and payments of each and every activity for all the divisions. In our group of companies, finance department plays a major role because in our sector very few companies are earning profit. It also takes great care in allocating the funds needed for efficient business transactions.
